

MRS. CHADWICK NOW ON TRIAL

Appears Before The United States Court At Cleveland This Morning at Ten.

IS VERY SELF-POSSESSED TODAY

Sits With Her Attorneys And Appears To Be Simply Much Interested In The Action Of The Court.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Cleveland, Ohio, March 6.—Cassie L. Chadwick was arraigned for trial this morning before Judge Taylor of the United States district court. The charge made was the violation of the National Banking laws and of entering into a conspiracy with president Beckwith and cashier Spears of the Citizens National Bank of Oberlin whereby she obtained money on worthless checks. There are sixteen counts in the indictment involving eight checks amounting to sixty seven thousand dollars. The transactions occurred last October. There are seven federal indictments against Mrs. Chadwick.

Leaves The Jail
The prisoner was escorted from the county jail and arrived at the court room at ten minutes before the time set for the trial. The prisoner's self-possession was perfect. She was dressed in a rich costume of black with a white veil over her face. She took a seat back with her lawyers at a big table bench. Both sides then announced they were ready. Mrs. Chadwick's lawyers are, J. H. Dawley, the well-known criminal lawyer; Sheldon C. Kerruish; Judge Francis J. Wing. The government is represented by district attorney John J. Sullivan and two assistants.

JAPANESE FOUGHT BEHIND BREASTWORK OF DEAD MEN

Attacking Army Gives The Russians A Chance To Make A Counter Move Which May Be Successful.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Petersburg, March 6.—The fate of General Kourapatkin and his army hangs in the balance, depending on the result of the fighting almost in the outskirts of Mukden.

According to latest reports the fighting went well for the Russians, who beat back the wave that threatened to roll over Mukden as it had over the fortifications of Port Arthur. But nothing is known as to what is going on beyond the line of breakers, whether part of Gen. Nogi's force is in full career for the Pass or whether the Japanese have staked all in a cast against Mukden.

Kourapatkin's line of communication has not been touched, though it is in extreme jeopardy. His right flank is bent so sharply backward that it may necessitate the abandonment of the Poutiloff and Novgorod hills, to which the Russians are still clinging firmly. The Russian left also has been so sharply repulsed that a correspondent compares the entire position to the letter "C." The Japanese, possibly, are pushing northward at tangents with both flanks.

Carnage Is Fearful.
A feature of all accounts of the fighting reaching St. Petersburg is the emphasis laid on the awful carnage. There is reference after reference to dead piled high on the ground over which an attack was delivered, strewn breastworks, almost hiding abatis from sight and even being used by the Japanese to construct hasty entrenchments. The Russian losses on both flanks are conceded to be enormous, but it is claimed that defenders of the center suffered comparatively little by the Japanese bombardment and beating off the Japanese attack.

forced marches which they made for six days, recalling the records of Stonewall Jackson's "foot cavalry." They entered the battle with the greatest dash and fought day after day with vigor; but those who were taken prisoners dropped to the ground utterly exhausted and hardly able to speak. They had not eaten for two days, which accounts in part for their utter fatigue.

The imminence of the peril on the west wing has withdrawn attention from the operations on the center, where the fighting has been extremely heavy, and on the left especially, where the Japanese gains are sufficiently great to cause apprehension to themselves.

Japs in Critical Position.
Military critics here point out that the Japanese have put themselves in a critical position by the extreme extension of their lines, laying themselves open as they did at Liao-Yang to the possibility of a most effective counter stroke and probable defeat if Kourapatkin should be able to launch a column against a weak link in the chain.

In other respects the situation also resembles that at Liao-Yang, the Japanese making a costly "demonstration" to hold the Russians in their fortifications on the center and throwing away the lives of thousands in order to give the attacking force an opportunity to administer a telling blow.

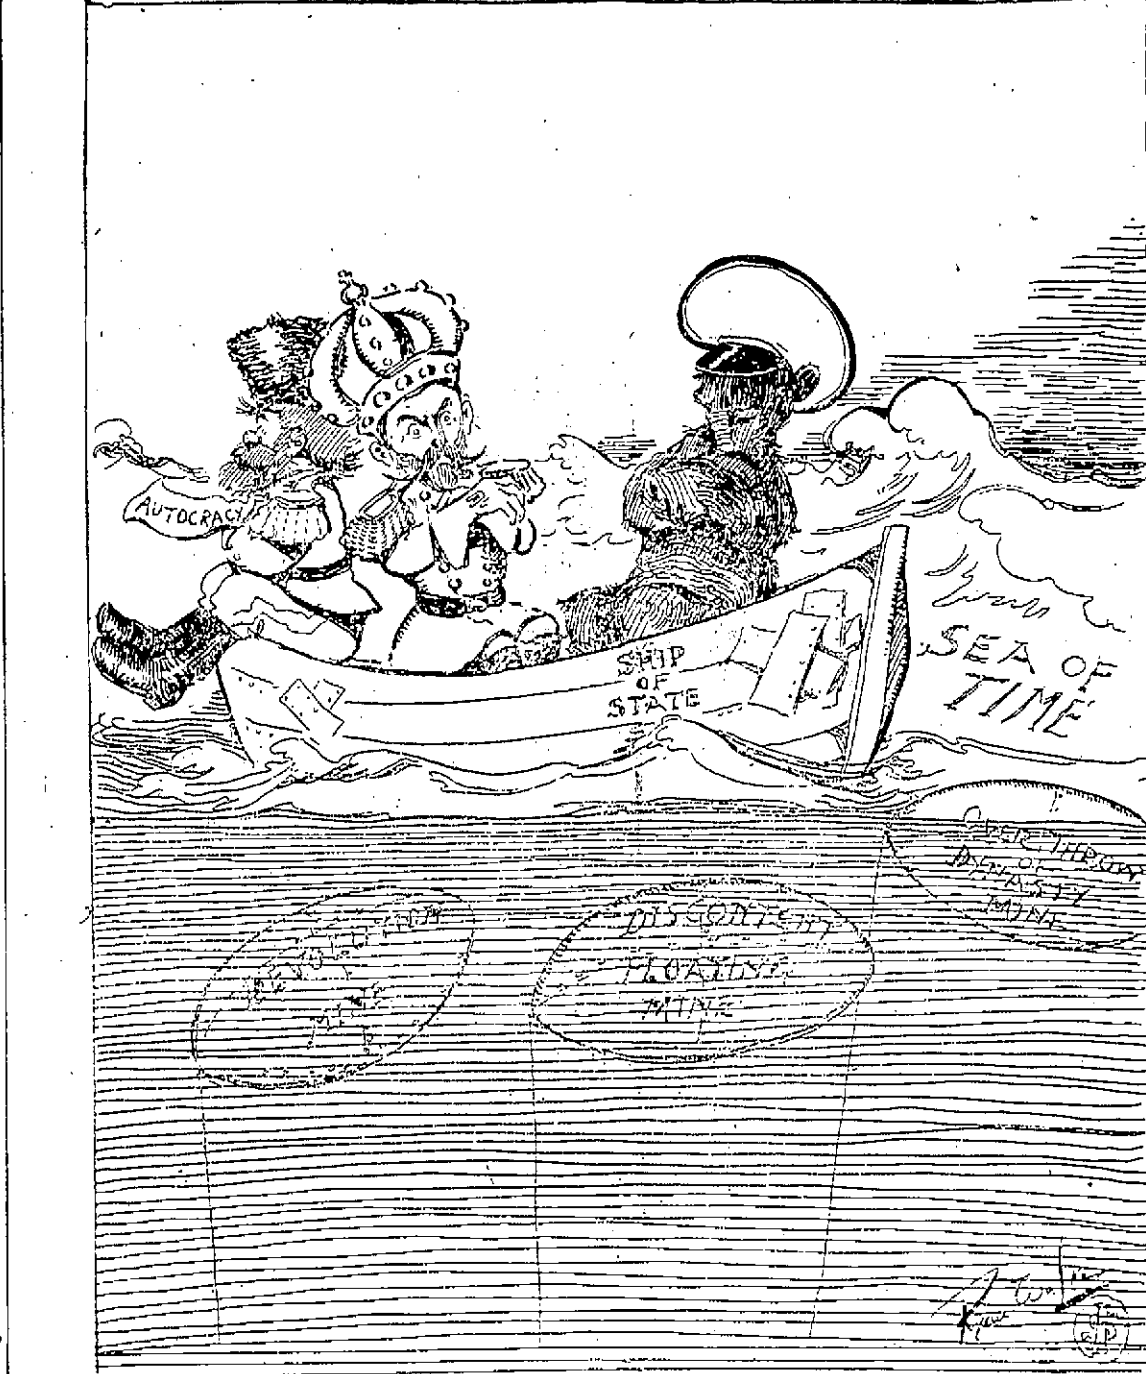

A hopeful sign is the postponement until to-morrow of the grand council of war which was to have met at Tsarskoe Selo to-day. This lends color to reports that the general situation has somewhat improved. The council was called to discuss the retirement on the Pass, but the action of the Japanese has made a successful retreat far more difficult than that at Liao-Yang, where but one flank was rolled back.

Why "Matrons of Honor."

"Matrons of honor" seem like an innovation, but, as a matter of fact, a "matron" in Anglo-Saxon times, led the bride, who was followed by her bridesmaids and preceded by her musicians. The bride's coming in on her father's arm—a custom of later days—did away with the matron's services; but the old custom establishes a precedent for having a married woman in the party.

LOST A FORTUNE IN THE BIG RAPIDS UP IN ALASKA

Prospector Coming Out Loses His Hard Earned
Gold in Coming Home—Originally From Chicago.

Bellingham, Wash., March 6.—After wandering about in the vast wilderness of Alaska during the summer months and struggling for his existence in the long, severe winters spent in lonely cabins, John Graham, a soldier of fortune, originally from Chicago, has returned to civilization. During the eight years that Graham spent in Alaska he amassed $100,000, but lost it all at one time while shooting the rapids down the Sliok river in making his way back to Fairbanks.

Graham left the United States with a French-Canadian, Pierre La Fournier. Both were from Chicago, but had spent a large part of their lives in the western part of the United States. From Winnipeg they set out on their long journey in search of the wealth of the far north. They had secured the services of half a dozen French-Canadian Indians and went in a northwesterly direction until they arrived at the Caribou mountains. There the men pitched their camp and remained for the greater part of five years.

Drowns During Storm.
The search not proving very profitable in that locality, they broke camp and set out for Great Bear lake. While making this trip the Indians, fearing to go farther in the fastnesses, one night deserted. This did not daunt the hardy prospectors. They pushed on until the great inland waters of the northland came into view. Here the men again established camp and it was, while making their headquarters here that La Fournier lost his life.

Graham says that his companion had been gone for two days, hunting. In attempting to cross the lake in a frail canoe while a storm was raging the craft capsized and the Frenchman was unable to save his life. When Graham saw that his partner was in distress he launched his own canoe and started to the rescue, but was too late.

Finds Pocket of Gold.
With no companions save his faithful dogs, Graham made his way farther into the wilderness on his sled. After two years of continual wandering he found himself in the foothills around Mount Hayes, in the vicinity of the now famous Tanana country. There Graham found a pocket of rich gold which, according to the size of the sacks, which taxed the strength of his dogs to pull, he says, amounted to $100,000.

With his fortune at last within his grasp and within a day's journey of civilization, Graham started for Fairbanks. In attempting to shoot the rapids on the Sliok river his canoe struck a snag and was overturned. He was thrown into the water. With him came his dogs, supplies and fortune. One small sack, worth about $2,500, was all that he managed to grasp as his boat capsized.

With the remnant of his riches Graham made his way to Fairbanks. From that city he came to the Puget sound country.

BOOM TIMES FOR BASE BALL FANS

FRANK L. SMITH WRITES OF PROSPEROUS YEARS AGAIN.

THE INTEREST DID NOT LAG

Result of Every Game Was Most Anxiously Awaited by the Fans at Home.

(By F. L. Smith.)

After our return from the northern trip there was considerable long distance sparring in the newspapers as to the comparative merits of the Milwaukee West Ends and the Mutuals. Here is a sample of the "dope." The Mutuals beat the Red Caps of St. Paul 15 to 3. Red Caps beat the Oshkosh club 30 to 3 and the Oshkosh club beat the West Ends 18 to 14. Which is the best? We had them the least bit scared anyway, and could not induce them to play the first game in this city.

Aug. 11th we visited Jefferson for a return game, accompanied by about fifty of our citizens. Foley, originally from Chicago but later with a professional club in Canada, was behind the bat, Smith did the pitching; J. Morrissey, ss; Doe, 2b; Tom Morrissey, cf; W. Canillon, 1b; T. Canillon, rf; "Little" Burdick, lf, and D. Sutherland, 3b. Burdick caught the last three innings of the game, which we won 18 to 5, Jefferson making but four base hits.

Go to Milwaukee Aug. 15 we made our long deferred trip to Milwaukee and past records of the two clubs indicated a close game in prospect. After all that had been published in the papers we were more anxious to defeat the West Ends than any club we had met, but fate and a few other things were against us, all contributing their share towards making our exhibition the very worst in the Mutuals' career—and then, some, yet, after all, if we could have traded our three catchers for Bliss, the result of the game would have been reversed. Three different catchers in on game with nine passed balls—as far as they were concerned, I might as well have been pitching to the wide world. Yes, the West Ends stopped a good many of the balls, but few of the hits went safe until plenty of chances had been given to put the side out. 20 errors by the balance of the nine! Well, here are the condensed details:

largest crowd of the season, practically the same lines lined up for the second contest. In the first game the Mutuals were unable to bat Chandler effectively but this time, to the surprise of most everyone, they opened up on him at the start with a vengeance, soon driving him to the tall grass. At this stage of the game the score was eight to two in our favor, but the West Ends had something good up their sleeves in the person of "Billy" Furlong, who was sent to the box to stop the fusillade and well he acted his part. With a slow curve ball—the first we had even seen—he had us entirely "faded," and our attempt to straighten them out were at times ludicrous. As is usually the case this change affected our fielding, entirely reversed the spirits of both nines, turned our feeling of confidence in an easy victory, into one of nervousness as to the outcome and we were finally defeated by a score of eleven to eight. The complete score of this game has been mislaid and have been unable to obtain a copy of same. August 29th the Red Stockings of Freeport came after revenge and got it—the other way—9 to 4. On account of rain, play was not called until nearly five o'clock and the Mutuals presented a new battery from Chicago—Edwards, pitcher and Leslie, catcher. They did very well until the third inning when Leslie received a terrible blow in the eye from a foul tip retiring him to right field, Foley going in to catch and Smith to short stop. In the 7th inning Smith went in to pitch, Morrissey to catch, necessitating the changing of positions of several others. In the Mutuals half of the 8th inning they had scored twelve runs and eight base hits when it became too dark to continue and the score remained to close of 7th inning. Darnley, who played 3d base for Freeport, was the same who later was a star in the National League. Here is the score in detail:

Next Day's Game The next day the Red Caps of St. Paul came with what looked to me to be much the strongest nine that had visited the city. On the trip they had picked up Mack (formerly of Chicago) at Oshkosh, and Gault at Milwaukee, leaving but three St. Paul men in the nine—West, Allen and Ahern—and they were very good players. Edwards and Leslie were again our battery, but on account of a lame arm, Edwards retired to first after the first inning, Canillon having a split hand going to the field, and Smith to the pitcher's box, where he had his usual compliment of catchers before the game ended, and was a little weak himself in fielding grounders, but we won as will be seen by the following:

ance of the nine. The writer was sent in to pitch with Leslie at the receiving end of the battery, where they remained during the entire nine innings and I think all the real pleasure derived from playing the pitcher's position during the summer was concentrated in that one game—Leslie catching in almost faultless style—and the balance of the nine entering into the spirit of the occasion with a zest that was certainly encouraging and then look at this bouquet from the Gazette: "The Mutuals yesterday played as easy and smooth a game of ball as we have ever seen in this city, batting well, fielding well and throwing well to bases. Smith is by far the best amateur pitcher in this part of the country, and with Leslie behind him bat make a team which supported as they were yesterday, can defeat any amateur nine in the Northwest." THE KANSAS OIL FIELD.

The rivalry between the Standard Oil Company and the independent producers of petroleum in Kansas will direct public attention to the mineral wealth of a state which has hitherto been known chiefly for its suitability to agriculture. From about a dozen counties in the southwestern part of Kansas, the yield of crude oil in 1903 was not far from 1,000,000 barrels, and last year the quantity was probably nearly five times as great. Having passed Louisiana and New York since 1902, the Sunflower state now ranks seventh among the American contributors to the world's supply. California, Ohio, Texas, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Indiana are still ahead of her, and to catch up with the rear of this section of the procession will be no easy task. Nevertheless, now that Kansas has begun to furnish 4 or 5 per cent of the oil of the United States, she occupies a position that must command respect, if not admiration. Within the last two or three years several refineries have been erected there, enormous tanks for storage have been built, and a number of pipe lines have been completed or are under construction. Additional importance is lent to these developments by the fact that portions of Indian Territory and Oklahoma, immediately south of the border of the Sunflower state, have also begun to yield. It is evident, therefore, that the field is an extensive one, though it has not yet been the scene of such sensational incidents as eastern Texas.

Writing for a recent number of "The Mining Magazine," W. H. Heydrick remarked that competition between conflicting interests was first observed nearly a year ago. Early last year the Standard Oil Company began to reduce prices. It did the same for the Pennsylvania product, but Mr. Heydrick says that the cut in the latter case was scarcely 20 per cent, whereas that in quotations for Kansas oil was more than 36 per cent. The immediate effect was to discourage drilling. In June operations were in progress on 240 new wells, but in July the number fell off to 176, and in August to 140. This, of course, was what the company wanted, as it believed that for the time being there was danger of overproduction. The other producers saw no necessity for checking the business, and organized an association for the purpose of protecting themselves. That proceeding alone seems to have averted and further cuts of consequence, but the independent owners were not reconciled to the situation as it then existed, and have sought relief by an appeal to the legislature for the establishment of a refinery under state auspices.

Obviously, the commercial value of Kansas oil must depend largely upon the facilities which are provided for sending it to market. The policy adopted by the Standard Oil Company, was to connect its local pipe lines with one which already reaches from the vicinity of Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard. Even without tapping Indian Territory, nearly six hundred miles of pipe were needed to connect Humboldt, Kan., with Whiting, Ind., on Lake Michigan, but the work of laying it was well under way last autumn. Before long, therefore, it should be possible to deliver the product of southwestern Kansas to Eastern refineries. This would be a notable performance, but not a strange one. Nothing is surprising nowadays. The course which Mr. Heydrick believed to be the wisest for the independent producers was to lay pipe to some convenient port on the Texas coast, say Port Arthur. Not more than five hundred miles would be required for that purpose.

However, Port Arthur is not itself a market, and even if it were, competition with the product of the Lone Star state would be encountered. Water transportation to more distant points would then be essential before the oil of Kansas could be sold. The problem thus presented is not an easy one to solve. Eventually the railroad companies whose lines extend to the northward, eastward and westward, of the newly opened field will probably burn petroleum on their locomotives, and electric and other plants will utilize it in a similar manner.

Whether the domestic demand will ever equal the increasing supply, though, is exceedingly doubtful. Provision for exportation on a large scale therefore, cannot be made too soon.

PRESS COMMENT.

Waukesha Freeman: Time will prove that Thos. W. Lawson has done a better and greater work for his country than any other man in the business world has done for a half century.

La Crosse Chronicle: The Janesville Gazette's Saturday night talk is a reminder of Brick Pomeroy's best work on the long ago La Crosse Democrat, under the same heading. It is refreshing and useful.

Racine Journal: The tobacco trust by its methods has closed over a hundred now active warehouses on the Ohio river and brought down very largely the price once paid to tobacco growers.

Sheboygan Journal: Twelve Chicago hotels have been ordered to put up additional fire escapes. Usually these great reform movements in Chicago follow closely on the death of a dozen or so persons in some fire trap.

Chicago Record-Herald: Niedringhaus has decided to give up trying to be the next United States senator from Missouri. Well, his friends can console themselves with the thought that he is going to keep away from a lot of temptations.

El Paso Herald: What we really want of the railways is to pay rates to all of us: give us premiums for the privilege of carrying out stuff. Nothing short of that will be satisfactory to all hands.

Superior Telegram: The other day a Chicago man committed suicide, leaving a written note wherein he attributed his hard luck to slow horses and fast women. No other reason for his rash act is known, except that he was in Chicago.

Sheboygan Journal: The mayor of Green Bay started a Carrie Nation crusade the other day and smashed all the gambling machines in town. This proves that that axe is a mightier weapon than the roulette wheel.

Chicago Chronicle: Mr. Harlan's characterization of Judge Dunne as the Hegart candidate is accurate. With Dunne in the mayor's office the people of Chicago would probably have a red ink extra of one kind or another every five minutes. If yellow journalism is not a public utility what is?

New York Herald: There is a movement, extending all over the country, to put an end at once for all to the disgusting and unhealthy practice of expectorating in the streets and public conveyances, and though the penalty may seem severe in some cases it is the only means, evidently of stamping out this pernicious habit.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The wife of vice-president-elect Fairbanks graduated in the same class with him both in college and law school, and subsequently took a degree in international, and parliamentary law. If any knotty points arise in presiding over the Senate, Mr. Fairbanks will know where to go for advice.

Oshkosh Northwestern: With all our progress and advancement in this country there are evidently some lines of industry that are not so prosperous as they might be. For instance, it is stated by the government experts that there are only about 3,000,000 mules in the country at the present time.

Exchange: Appleton dispatches say the young women of that city have formed what is known as a "Potato Mashers club." The appearance of a "Jack-the-burger" in that city and the experience of some who have met him gave rise to the club. Each member carries under her cloak a potato masher, ready for use in case she is troubled.

Clinton Banner: The statement in this week's Clinton Herald that the proprietor of the "Banner" sought to induce our office boy, Harold Bruce, to leave us, is false. The attack upon us is uncalled for, unjust and unkind, but admirably illustrates the character of the man who wrote it. He is a conceited person with a gift of gab which he delights in displaying regardless of the truth.

Appleton Crescent: Hicks, the alleged weather prophet, hit it quite fairly well in his predictions for February, but almost any one can forecast a stormy, disagreeable month for March, because wind, snow sleet and rain, alternating with prevailing raw, northwest winds, is but a normal condition for that meanest, most disagreeable month of the entire year.

Boston Transcript: Not age, but obnoxiousness should be made the basis of the chloroforming at all. There are young men who have entered politics to purify it and become the worst kind of corruptionists; young men who have entered literature to write the great American romance and fallen into the habit of dictating a full fool book every two weeks—these and others merit the sophoric sponge.

Appleton Post: At the same time the president nominated Joseph V. Quarles of Wisconsin to take the place to be made vacant by the advancement of Judge Seaman. The appointment of Senator Quarles is in itself no less meritorious than that of the latter and it would be receiving with no less general satisfaction were it not for the political or faction ruction which has lately been disturbing Wisconsin. But even so, no hint proceeds from any quarter that Mr. Quarles is unworthy or unfit for the position named.

Pond du Lac Reporter: The Noble bill which provides that the manufacturers of proprietary medicines shall put the formula of the contents on the outside of every package should be indefinitely postponed by the legislature. It is in defiance of the vested rights of property and should not become a law. Such a law would destroy a large business irrevocably and establish nothing in its place. Its immediate effect would be confiscation of property, a thing prohibited by the constitution.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Mrs. Leonard Stanford, a woman whose ruling passion was philanthropy and the ruling of an imperishable and noble monument to the memory of her dead son, died in the belief that she was the relentless, secret pursuer of an unknown poisoner. To the common errors of death the weight of that dreadful conviction was added. Whether Mrs. Stanford really was a victim of the plot, belief in which darkened her last hour, or whether the belief was a delusion brood originally of the suspicious episode in San Francisco on Jan. 14, is a question that must await investigation and may never be conclusively solved. There are some circumstances and considerations that lead credibly to the view that Mrs. Stanford's belief in a plot against her life was a delusion. There is the difficulty of fixing a probable motive for so black and dangerous a design.

CAR LOADS OF CANDLES.

Traveling Salesman Got an Order That Fairly Took His Breath Away.

"Talk about how the wild and unconquerable west does business," says a Chicago drummer, according to the Post. "I was selling Corliss engines, machinery and other things in the Black Hills some time ago, and came into the beautiful Lead and Deadwood region."

"While there I met a traveling salesman from Omaha or some other point and he said to me:

"Do you understand the west?"

"I replied that I thought I did."

"Well, I don't," he said. "I've just lost my breath. I went up to Lead and I had some candles to sell. I called on Grier, of the Homestead mine, and told him I had candles—plenty of 'em."

"Got samples?" he asked shortly.

"I said I had not, but that I could get them quick."

"Bring 'em along," he snorted.

"I wired the house for samples and patted myself on the back thinking I would get an order for 10,000 or possibly 12,000—the biggest order I ever expected to get in the mountain country."

"My samples came and they were tip-top. I took them up to Grier and he gave 'em a close inspection."

"Pretty good lot," he finally sniffed. "Send 'em four carloads."

"I looked at him to see if he was joking, but he wasn't. He never batted an eye. I was so staggered I walked the way back to Deadwood trying to get my breath. I sent the order in and the house filled it, filled the greatest single order it ever had; but I changed my mind then and there as to how the west buys. It gets there with all feet."

In "Light Distress."

"I heard a new term the other day," said W. B. Snow, Jr. "It was at Winston. An old lady and her two daughters came into a millinery store. The young women were mourning hats."

"The old woman said to the clerk: 'I want a mourning hat, for I am in mourning. But my daughter here,' indicating, is a widow of two years standing, and she is in light distress. Give her a hat with blue feathers on it.'"

How the Grasshopper Lost

A grasshopper because he had won a jumping match from the cricket challenged a bullfrog who lived, near by. When the date for the match approached, the grasshopper worked very hard so as to jump at the proper weight. He would run a mile or two, jump rope, fly over fences, until he was really the greatest jumper that had appeared in the neighborhood for years. At last everything was ready for the contest.

The bullfrog leaped the mark and sang a sort of refrain like this:

Watch me jump! Watch me jump!

Then he jumped at least six feet.

"That's nothing," said the grasshopper. "I told you all that I'm the greatest jumper on earth. After this jump I intend to go with the circus and do a jumping act."

Then he threw out his legs in one grand leap and would certainly have won the match, but through a faulty steering gear he jumped right down the throat of a turkey gobbler who had been watching the performance.

An Animal Story For Little Folks
HOW MR. TOM CAT CULTIVATED HIS VOICE.

There were few cats in all animal land, who had better voices than Mr. Tom Cat. He knew all the latest songs and could sing them with an earnestness and vigor that aroused the admiration of his friends and the envy of his enemies. He was his proud boast that nobody within three blocks of him could sleep through one of his nightly open air concerts.

If Mr. Tom Cat had been given a penny for every window that had been opened, for every head that had been struck out, for every missile that had been thrown at him while he was singing, he would have been a very wealthy cat indeed.

But, like a great many people, Mr. Tom Cat was not satisfied. He was not contented to let well enough alone. He wanted to become still more famous. He wanted his voice to swell out upon the night air until its volume was so great that it would sound like two cats singing instead of one. As he did not know exactly how to attain this end he decided to consult some one who could enlighten him. And it was just here that he made his mistake.

Instead of going to a friend for advice, he sought a rival, a cat that could sing as well as he. This cat naturally did not want Mr. Tom to improve, and so he was not liable to give any good advice.

"Eat a pound of sawdust," he said to Tom, and Tom very foolishly went off to a carpenter's shop and bought the sawdust and ate it.

Then he sat down and began to think, and the longer he sat the more he thought. And while he thought he suffered the worst pain that he had ever been called upon to suffer in all his life. The sawdust weighed on his stomach like a ton of lead. The tears came into his eyes, and he could not stop them. It was almost enough to kill him, and it is a great wonder that it did not kill him.

It was three whole days before he could resume his nightly songs, and he found his voice had not improved one whit. But there were two good lessons he learned—first, to be contented with what he had; and second, never to try to make a meal out of sawdust.—Detroit Journal.

A FORTUNATE PURCHASE.

A large purchase from a New York dealer in Cut Glass enables us to make an offer which if made by a store less known would sound absurd.

RIGID INQUIRY FOR OIL TRUSTS

WILL DEVELOP ALL THE FACTS

Commissioner Garfield Promises to Do His Best to Unearth Any Illegal Acts for Which the Great Monopoly May Be Responsible.

Washington, March 6.—Commissioner James R. Garfield of the bureau of corporations has instituted a rigid investigation of the operations of the oil industry in Kansas and contiguous states. In response to a resolution of the house of representatives introduced by Representative Campbell of Kansas, the investigation of the oil industry will be carried on as rapidly as is consistent with thoroughness. The report of Commissioner Garfield will be made directly to President Roosevelt. Whether it will be made public will be within the discretion of the chief executive. Depending on the facts developed, it may be turned over to the department of justice for such action as the attorney general may deem proper. Commissioner Garfield said that nothing would be left undone by his bureau to develop the facts regarding the operations of the oil trust in Kansas, as well as in other states.

Thorough Investigation.
It is not the purpose of Commissioner Garfield to confine the inquiry to Kansas. It will not be circumscribed by state or geographical lines. It is the intention of the commissioner to make the investigation as exhaustive as the resolution of Representative Campbell contemplates, the purpose being to develop all the facts regarding the operations of the oil trust.

"During the past year," said Commissioner Garfield, "a great amount of general information relating to the oil trust has been obtained. This affords a basis from which to undertake immediate specific inquiries into the conditions existing in specific fields, such as Kansas, Texas and California. The method of procedure," said Commissioner Garfield, "will be similar to those followed in the inquiry into the operations of the alleged beef trust. The commissioner of corporations, personally and through special agents, will obtain information from original sources. Already these sources of information have been sounded. They have responded to the commissioner of corporations by agreeing to furnish information, to afford the fullest opportunity for inspection of records and accounts and to answer all questions pertinent to all matters involved in the inquiry."

It is the intention of Commissioner Garfield under direction of President Roosevelt to make the inquiry into the operations of the oil trust as comprehensive and exhaustive as possible. Nothing will be left undone that will develop a single fact relating to the work of the trust and if it has been unjust in discrimination against the producers of oil in Kansas or in any other state the inquiry will show it.

Not a Common Carrier.

It is pointed out that the oil trust, through its pipe lines, is not a common carrier, under the law, and it cannot be compelled to carry oil from any given field unless the producers accede to its terms. The oil trust maintains that it has conducted its business not only in accordance with the law, but in perfect regard to recognized business principles, and that, therefore, it is perfectly willing to have the government make as rigid an inquiry as it may desire into its methods of doing business.

It is the purpose of Commissioner Garfield to make the investigation as thorough as possible. He personally will go to Kansas and perhaps to other oil fields in the conduct of the inquiry, which, as heretofore indicated, is not to be confined to a specific field. Every ramifications of the inquiry will be followed, whether it lead across state lines or not. It may lead from Kansas to Texas, from Texas to California, but wherever it may lead it will be followed in an earnest endeavor to ascertain all the facts regarding the operations of the alleged oil trust.

Tobacco and Deafness.
Tobacco has been discovered to have a selective action upon the auditory nerve. Moderation in the use of the drug, and avoiding it altogether where deafness has already begun, or where there is a family history of such troubles, is advisable.

Puts Out Oil Fire.

When the oil in a big tank in Fresno county, California, was fired by lightning, a cannon ball was shot into the tank and the oil ran out through trenches that had been dug for the purpose.

HOW LUTHERANS OBSERVE SEASON

REV. CHRISTY ON LENT AND ITS SIGNIFICANCE.

PREFACE TO MORNING SERMON

Brief History of the Custom and Reasons for Observing It—The Word Lent

Rev. W. P. Christy prefaced his morning sermon yesterday with a short address on Lent and its significance and observance in the Lutheran church. He briefly reviewed the history of this season, telling the original reason for the holding of the forty days aside from the rest of the year as ones in which social pleasures should be placed far in the background and the thought of the sufferings and death of Jesus should take the uppermost place in our minds. His central theme was the observance of Lent according to the doctrines of Luther and the regulations placed upon the members of the church. Rev. Christy's sermon was on "The Vicarious Atonement," a strong doctrinal sermon on the text taken from 11 Corinthians 5:21: "For He made Him to be sin for us who knew no sin, that ye might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

Reason for Lent
The preface of the sermon is as follows: "The center of Christianity is Christ; and the center of Christ's history is his passion, or suffering for the sins of the world. It is therefore with special solemnity that Christians have approached the commemoration of it. From the earliest periods of the church—according to the first Christian emperor, from the first day of our Lord's passion—there has been a portion of the year set apart for meditation upon the Savior's sufferings and death; which was usually passed as Eubulus says, 'in fasting and watching, and in the study of the divine word.'"

Meaning of Word
This solemnity was fixed to the spring season, hence the name of "Lent," by which it is commonly known. "Lent" is a Saxon word for "spring" or the portion of the year when the days begin perceptibly to lengthen. These lengthening days were chosen for the special commemoration of the Savior's passion, for the reason that His death occurred in the spring. Thus this commemoration itself came to be religiously called "Lent."

The Forty Days
At a very early period it was arranged to cover forty days preceding the festival of the resurrection. Several considerations served to fix this number. Forty years were the children of Israel under discipline in their trying pilgrimage. Forty days did Moses fast on the mount. Forty days was Elijah in the wilderness. Forty days did the Ninivites fast to avert the judgments prophesied by Jonah, and forty days did the Savior fast before He entered upon the work of His public ministry.

Not an Obligation
Lent is not a divine appointment and hence not of absolute obligation upon Christians. Its appropriateness, however, no one can reasonably question; and its usefulness when observed in the true spirit of Christianity is indisputable. "Can the children of the bride-chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them?" but the days will come when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days."—Mark 2:19-20.

Lutheran Lent
The Lutheran church, indeed, makes no special requirement of her members with reference to this season; but she recognizes its propriety, and has provided in her lessons and liturgies for such an observance of it as accords with the importance of the subject and as may not obscure the great root-doctrine of justification by faith. No special regime for the body is prescribed, except such restraints upon our ordinary indulgences, cares, and worldly presents, as naturally and necessarily go along with a making up of the soul to its sins and wants, and a renewed earnestness in the present of salvation.

Meat Not Forbidden
She does not command to abstain from meats; (as though that could help to atone for sin; but she does insist upon such a life-reformation, and soul-discipline, and mortification of the flesh and looking to Christ as our self-sacrificing Mediator and Redeemer, as shall lead us to turn from all unrighteousness, loose the bands of wickedness; remove the yoke of our oppressions, divide bread to the hungry, clothe the naked, regard the needy, and show the same merciful mind as was exemplified by our blessed Lord Himself.)

True Observance
The danger and too often the tendency is to make this season of Lent exactly what it is not intended to be: when formality overshadows and obscures the true significance, when the sacred season becomes only a period of privation intended to sharpen the appetites for fresh indulgences when the season is past, when the awful shame of pretending to keep the sacred season with extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion when there is no true circumscription of the heart—no such observance, from such shame, from such hypocrisy, from such Phariseism may God preserve us.

EVANSVILLE WINS THE BELOIT MEET

TAKES FIRST PLACE IN TRACK GATHERING EASILY.

THIRD PLACE TO JANSVILLE

Interclass Meet Here Friday—Beloit Wins from Local Y. M. C. A. in Basketball.

Evansville.....33 Freeport.....11
Beloit.....14 1/2 Rockford.....9 1/2
Jansville.....13

In the Beloit college "prep" indoor track meet in the Smith gymnasium Saturday afternoon the team from the smallest place carried off the largest number of points and the aggregation from the largest city the least. The victory for Evansville was an easy one and from early in the meet interest centered in the race for second place, which was on a level decided by the relay, giving Beloit second and Jansville third. Individual honors in the meet went to Churn of Evansville, a son of Rev. Churn, formerly of Jansville. A magnificent cup was awarded to the winning team. This prize is donated by Beloit college and when taken by three successive years by any one school will be awarded permanently. The winners of the different events and all members of relay teams which took one of the first three places were given ribbons.

Jansville's Points
The thirteen points for Jansville were made by first in the 440-yard run, first in the 880-yard run, and second in the mile relay. Davis ran a pretty quarter, winning in 60 flat. This time equals the Smith gymnasium record, in which a number of lesser college meets have been held. In the half-mile Smith proved to be a distance runner of worth and easily ran away from his opponents, finishing half a lap ahead of Richardson of Evansville, the second man, in 2:23. The Jansville relay team, which took second place in 3:05 2-3, was comprised of Lee, Edgington, Smith and Davis; the Evansville four, winners of third place in 4:09 2-5, were Brooks, Winters, Hubbard and Churn.

Summary
Following is a summary of events: 25-yard dash—Clermont of Freeport, first; Kigore of Beloit, second; Hubbard of Evansville, third; time, 2 3-5.
Low hurdles—Clermont of Freeport, first; Hubbard of Evansville, second; Temby of Beloit, third; time, 4.
High hurdles—Hubbard of Evansville, first; Churn of Evansville, second; Goddard of Freeport, third.
440-yard run—Davis of Jansville, first; Brooke of Evansville and Bedford of Beloit tied for second; time, 60 sec.
880-yard run—Smith of Jansville, first; Richardson of Evansville, second; Stevens of Rockford and Bedford of Beloit tied for third; time, 2:23.
Mile run—Churn of Evansville, first; Wickem of Beloit, second; Richardson of Evansville, third; time, 5:20.
Pole vault—Brooke and Wilder of Evansville tied for first; King of Rockford, third.

High jump—Rundquist and Milne of Rockford tied for first; Brooke of Evansville, third; height, 5 ft. 1 in.
Relay—Beloit (Temby, Sheldon, Bedford and Buckenidge) first; Jansville, second; Evansville, third; time, 3:51.
Because but three schools had made entries in the shot put, this event was not held.

BELOIT COLLEGE VICTORS OVER LOCAL ASSOCIATION IN BASKETBALL CONTEST

In a closely fought game of basketball played in the Smith gymnasium in the line city Saturday night the Beloit college won from the Y. M. C. A. team of Jansville by a score of 31 to 23. Not until the last few minutes of play was Beloit sure of victory, when the Jansville team began to show signs of weakening and Ransom, the captain of the Beloit five, a colored player, evidenced his ability in the game. The first half ended with a score of 13 to 7 in favor of Beloit and shortly after the commencement of the second half Jansville tied Beloit's score. The Jansville team was composed of It and E. Palmer, Lee, Matthews and Wilkerson and the Beloit players were Ransom, Moore, Wilson, Bangs and Strong. About twenty rooters accompanied the team from here.

INTERCLASS MEET WILL BE HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

The annual interclass indoor meet of the high school will be held this Friday night. None of the classes as yet have been getting their athletes out and the rest of this week will be a busy time in the track circles of the school. Each class has a fair amount of material and the veterans are almost evenly distributed among the three upper classes. It is probable that other than the regular track events will be held and among them possibly an obstacle race.

MYERS RUNS PRETTY IN RELAY RACE AT MADISON

In the annual meet at Madison Saturday night the inter-fraternity races were held, a two-mile relay run by the university team and a four from Beloit college. The varsity men were Breitkreutz, Waller, Myers and Keisl. The Beloit college team was comprised of Strong, Ferris, Hart and Webster. The victory for Wisconsin was easy and Myers in his half-mile of the race gained greatly over his opponent. Frank Fisher took third place in the two-mile run.

NARROWLY ESCAPED A TERRIBLE DEATH

F. C. Randall Was Struck by Car While at Work in Myers Hotel Elevator Pit.

Called in to make some repairs on the mechanism of the Myers hotel elevator, which had gotten out of order, F. C. Randall narrowly escaped being terribly crushed in the elevator pit shortly after seven o'clock last evening. Randall was in a stooping posture most of the time and as he connected up the mechanism gave orders that the running power of the car be tested, enjoining a young man who stood near to keep constant watch on the cage and tell him if it came down too far and could not be stopped. When the last test was ordered Randall did not look up. Neither did the boy, and before any warning could be given the cage came down and struck the worker on the back, forcing him down and out of the way in the three-foot pit. When the man had been conveyed to his home, 203 Glen street, by the ambulance and Dr. Fred Sutherland had been called, it was found that he was badly bruised but that no bones were broken nor internal injuries sustained, as far as could be ascertained. It is probable, however, that Mr. Randall will be laid up several weeks.

Treatise on Cement Composition
An important treatise in the manufacture and use of cement compositions, employed in the erection of building edifices, located above the surface of the ground, based on the practical experience of a builder who detected a by-mixture to the cement and sand, which is analogue to the virtues of the cement, and if employed in cement compositions as in the manufacture of cement brick and cavity-blocks, it will arrest and distribute their affinity to moisture and water to such an extent that any deterioration caused by rain and frost is prevented. The treatise is written in a plain form of language without the adoption of chemical and analytical formulas. It is of importance to every architect, builder and cement brick and block manufacturers, and the public in general. It subdues and annuls the same prejudice against cement compositions, etc., etc. The treatise can be obtained in a pamphlet form at Sutherland & Sons' book store.

RED ROSE SOCIETY AS ENTERTAINERS

Gave a Very Pleasing Dance and Musical Program at Blind Institute Saturday.

Resplendent in colored electric lights and streamers of red and white bunting that radiated from a central cluster of lamps, the large gymnasium of the blind institute was the scene of an animated gathering Saturday evening. The entertainment given by the Red Rose society of thirty young men consisted of a musical and literary program followed by a dance. The first of the numbers, given on the stage decorated with the stars and stripes and large symbols of the society in red, was "The Conciliator March" played by Prof. Lake's orchestra of four pieces. President Herbert Cooley of the society then delivered a very pleasing address of welcome and was succeeded by Messrs. Bergman and Bauer who rendered a piano duet—Schubert's "March Militaire." A pipe organ solo—Mendelssohn's "Wedding March"—by William Cochran, a very entertaining narrative of the history of the club by Joseph Kimball; a selection—"Adagio"—by the string quartette composed of Messrs. Luenberger, Bauer, Quade, and Kimball, followed. Afterwards came the "Prophecy of the Club" by William Cochran; "A Toast to the Red Rose," music by Herbert Adams, orchestra instructor, and words by L. W. Brooks; and the march—"Return of the Flowers," by the orchestra.

Dancing commenced shortly after eight o'clock and there were sixty couples in the grand march. During the evening an elaborate luncheon was served at long tables lighted with red-shaded lamps in the dining room. The committee in charge of the program consisted of Herbert Cooley, William Quade, Walter Smiley, Vilgo Bishop, Ludwig Ness, Otto Bauer, and John Baer. Instructors M. Comb and Reese, Vilgo Bishop, Herbert Davies, George Bergman, and George Luenberger attended to the decorations.

Ludwig Ness, William Quade, and Herbert Cooley made the necessary arrangements with the housekeeper. The Red Rose society is nearly two years old and the party was given in honor of its approaching anniversary and the inauguration day of President Roosevelt. The president of the organization has already been mentioned. Ludwig Ness is vice president; Alphonse Bentzine, secretary; Otto Bauer, treasurer; and George Bergmann, sergeant-at-arms. A similar society of girls called the White Rose gave a dance not long ago. Saturday evening's festivities closed at 11:30. Visitors from without the city were: Mrs. Quade and H. G. Quade, Jr., of Milwaukee, W. F. Hursey of Rockford, Miss Nora Woods of Madison, Miss Nellie Owens of Portage, and the Misses Mabel and Nellie Gordon of Waupaca. A number of young people from Jansville attended as the invited guests of the society.

SPRING TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT

Was Opened This Morning—Hearing on Avon Drainage District Petition.

In circuit court this morning was conducted a hearing of a petition for the appointment of commissioners to organize a drainage district in the town of Avon. A half a score of property owners appeared to protest against the district including certain tracts of land, presumably their own, but none objected to the proposition in general and the appointment of the commissioners. The action of McComb vs. the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York to recover commissions alleged to be due, with a counter-claim for the delinquency of a sub-agent, was argued this afternoon and it was expected that a special verdict would be directed. Wilson Lane and William Smith appeared for the insurance company and E. H. Ryan and M. O. Mour for the plaintiff. The personal injury case of Fred Kneek, by guardian, vs. the Rock River Machine Co. is set for tomorrow.

M. Fisher and Charles Pierce will appear for the plaintiff and George Sutherland for the defendant. The case of Keighry vs. Sweeney is also set for tomorrow.

RUDOLPH'S

YELLOWSTONE IS WONDERFUL PLACE

A Letter Written by the Superintendent Tells of Its Wonders.

G. E. Farrow, superintendent of Yellowstone park, recently wrote to a Janesville friend regarding this wonderful spot. "The buffalo herd in Yellowstone Park, started by the United States government and during the past few years very carefully watched to prevent the death of the young, is increasing rapidly and will this year number between twenty and twenty-five more animals than a year ago at this time. The herd is in excellent condition. It has wintered well and the calves are growing fast and appear to be sound and strong. It has been the wish of the government officers to increase the herd until it resembles the old time herds which covered the Western prairies. The experiment of propagating the animals is definitely a success and the army officers, upon whom the work has largely developed, are correspondingly pleased. Major Pitcher of the United States army represents the government in the park and is practically and officially the custodian of the herd.

"There is every promise that the natural increase of the herd will add twenty more animals this summer. The buffalo calves of last year survived remarkably well and there is no reason why the calves this year should not meet equal success. The buffalo don't need to struggle for a living. Feed is good, the valleys give them splendid shelter and they have the pick of grazing lands over which to roam.

"The other wild animals in the Yellowstone are increasing in number. Elk and deer come down to the Mammoth Hot Springs this winter in large numbers and roamed around within plain sight. The deep snows on the mountains forced them to lower altitudes. They didn't seem to mind the cold or snow and appeared to be in the very best of shape. The bears are of course a sleep. They increase yearly and one of the first attractions to the tourists, since they do not hesitate to come into the open where they may be seen. They are mild mannered and inoffensive, bothered more with designs on the hotel garbage piles than with hostile operations against mere men and women. The garbage piles attract them every night and they fight and quarrel and bark politics over the empty canned goods tins to the amusement of thousands of people who annually witness the banquets 'down at the dump'.

"Magnificent trout fishing is promised for the coming season, which opens June 1. The government prohibited trout fishing during the winter and not a line has been dropped into the dozens of beautiful streams since last fall. More to the point, the trout are watched and where they seem to be thinning out, steps are taken to give them a chance to multiply again. There will be royal sport for the summer visitors this year; better even than in previous seasons and that is saying a good deal. There is no better protection of fish and game than that of the federal government in the Yellowstone Park.

"We expect a very large travel to the Park this summer and the hotels are being prepared in advance to handle the rush. The new Old Faithful Inn, near the geysers of that name—the most expensive log house in the world by the way for it cost $200,000—will be a favorite resort. Its balconies, balustrades, ceiling beams and arches and in fact nearly every detail of construction are worked out in logs and gnarled and twisted tree trunks and branches. The search light plays on the great geysers at night, giving effects of marvelous beauty. The Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, to which many Eastern people and thousands from the Mississippi valley will go, will

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease That Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Sullen, Irritable and Dependent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

Overwork the stomach, or subject it to the depressing influence of worry, care, or constant excitement, and it gives out. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and, like an overdriven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach, and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lies heavy, ferments, and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is a nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills is its cure.

Mrs. James H. Titus, of No. 107 Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just splendid. My stomach bothered me for twelve years—food digesting slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way today—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have and will continue to recommend them strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly acted like magic with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Portals and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

SMART RAINCOAT WITH WHITE CLOTH WAISTCOAT

The introduction of vest or waistcoat effect makes for a pleasing variety, even in the most utilitarian of raincoats. A syndicate model is in the pearl gray satin, with a blouse waistcoat of white cloth, decorated with a fancy pointed-edge braid in black and white. The blouse part is prettily draped at the waistline, the cloth vest following the same mode. The sleeve is a very full design, shirring on the inner seam adding to the fullness, while the cuff is provided with snap fasteners to hold it closely to the wrist. The skirt has stitched down double box pleats at either side of the front and these appear also in the back, the pleats stitched half way to the knee and well pressed from there. Little rosettes of the silk are centered with embroidered buttons and used for trimming down the front of the blouse.

curry travel past the door of the Yellowstone, the Gardner Gateway on the Northern Pacific and many will therefore stop en route, killing two birds with one stone and combining their Yellowstone Park and Portland Exposition outings. At Gardner is the immense arch of which President Roosevelt laid the corner stone. It stands at the head of a road system of 150 miles—every mile sprinkled daily. This is an odd feature for a mountain wilderness, but its practical value becomes apparent when one remembers what coaching trips over some mountain roads are like.

"The new road over Mountain Washburn will be completed this year, and tourists will be enabled to drive by coach to the very summit of an immense mountain, from which point the entire park can be seen. The new road will not be used this season however. It is a wonderful piece of engineering, and has proven a very costly bit of roadmaking, but it is a government road well-built, and built to last.

"Ten thousand people saw the Park last season. What the travel will be this year I cannot say, but it will exceed this figure, probably by a very substantial figure."

GREEK IS MURDERED BY FINNS

Foreign Quarter of Winnipeg, Man., Started by Crime.

Winnipeg, Man., March 6.—Nicholas Pothakos, a Greek workman employed on the canal docks, was brutally murdered on Christie street, Fort William. Pothakos was going home with his son, aged 10, and when in the rear of a Finnish boarding house was grabbed by two men. One held Pothakos, while the second plunged a knife deep into his breast. The murderers escaped and Pothakos stumbled a few yards and fell dead. The boy gave the alarm and later identified a Pizlander, Jacob Candova, as the man who stabbed his father. The suspected man is 21 years old and denies all knowledge of the crime. The Greek colony is greatly excited over the tragedy.

BIG DOG BITES OFF MAN'S EAR

St. Bernard Resents Familiarity Shown by Employee of His Master.

Washington, March 6.—Edward Freeman, a wall paper hanger in the employ of J. W. Mahoney, in Anacostia, walked into the Providence hospital with one ear severed from his head. Freeman, who lives with his employer, started to play with the great St. Bernard belonging to Mahoney, when the dog made a snap at Freeman's head and bit off his ear. Freeman took the severed ear with him to the hospital and Dr. Hilton and Dr. Smith performed the operation of replacing the ear, and if this is successful it will be an uncommon case in surgical experience.

DAVIS WIDOW MAKES REPLY

SAYS SHE DID NOT THANK HIM

Note to the Soldier Is Declared to Have Been a Message of Gratitude for Answering Questions Regarding Her Husband.

Atlanta, Ga., March 6.—Such epithets as "loathly," "industrious and unscrupulous villager of the dead and living," and "calumniator" are some of those applied to Lieut. Gen. Miles, U. S. A., retired, by Mrs. Jefferson Davis in her most recent letter dealing on the controversy concerning the alleged placing of iron on Jefferson Davis. Gen. Miles had asserted that he was in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Davis, thanking him for his care of the imprisoned president of the confederacy in Fortress Monroe.

Dr. H. G. Scamp, for years professor of Greek at Emory college in this state, has just received Mrs. Davis' last letter. She says of the circumstances under which she possibly wrote to Miles:

"Mrs. Davis' Story. 'We were anchored out in the Hampton Roads. All my servants had been taken away except one faithful man, who insisted upon remaining. My children were all mere babies, the eldest being 9 years old and the youngest of the four was a nursing baby.

"My young sister lay ill, and when I sent for a physician to come to the ship—as we were not allowed to go on shore—one was refused on the ground that we were not permitted to leave the ship. The day before my husband and young brother—our adopted child—and all the rest of the prisoners had been taken off on tugs. Miles came on the boat. I had heard whispered such dreadful rumors of their having been imprisoned in the hold of an ironclad and of a thousand horrors that I questioned Gen. Miles earnestly and besought him to tell me where they were.

"Thanks Miles for Answering. 'He answered my questions in a meager kind of a way, but told me Mr. Davis was well and comfortable. We were to sail that night or the next day under sealed orders, for what port or what country we could not form an idea. I wrote the little note to Miles, thanking him, not for kindness to my husband, as I could not possibly have known if Miles had been kind or otherwise, but for answering my questions. In the abandonment of my misery I neglected no chance to hear what had been done.

"At that time Miles was having the iron forged, and was afflicting him with every indignity in his power and not one of Miles' answers was the truth. I was a prisoner when the note was written in Hampton Roads on the Clyde transport ship.

"You will see a particular statement of the circumstances. I really never knew a worse or more cruel creature than this 'loathly' man. I hope God may pardon him and help me to forgive him.

Gave Weapon to Guard. "My poor child, Mrs. Hayes of Colorado Springs, took up this fight when I was too ill even to see Miles' false account. I am still too weak to do more than add my testimony to hers. But I could not permit the calumniator to pretend he had a letter of thanks from me. One southern paper after another gave this falsehood credence. I felt I had incautiously put a weapon in his hands. So I was forced to enter the public arena and demand that my note of thanks should be published. He had better have pretended that it was lost than to have convicted himself of a downright falsehood.

"I required that it (the letter) should be photographed or sworn to before a notary public. His letter to Gen. Townsend I send to you, but beg you will return it to me as soon as you have read it. It may be some of our papers may want to copy and publish it. Please take great care of the slips I send you, for I do not know how soon this industrious and unscrupulous villager of the dead and living may renew his attack.

"V. Jefferson Davis."

GIVES TO CONSCIENCE FUND

Woman Sends Money to Pay for Two Bars of Soap.

Toledo, Ohio, March 6.—Toledo's conscience fund was increased by the contribution of 10 cents, the price of two bars of soap. The money came in a letter to Infirmary Director Avery from Emma Meredith of the Children's Episcopal hospital, Cincinnati. The woman says that since she left the infirmary the Lord has changed her life, and he showed her the time when she left the institution that she had two bars of soap which belonged to the infirmary. The record shows that she was in the institution in May, 1901.

Quits Federal Job. Denver, Col., March 6.—A. Lincoln Fellows, district engineer of the United States reclamation service, in charge of the great irrigation projects in seven western states, resigned and accepted the appointment of state engineer of North Dakota.

All Love Admiration. No truthful woman will admit that she'd rather be a violet hidden in the woodland than an American Beauty in a florist's window.

American Stops Swiss Train. Losing his new hat out of a window of a Swiss express, an American passenger pulled the alarm cord and the train was stopped. He recovered his hat and cheerfully paid a $10 fine.

Business Honor in Japan.

In Japan every dishonored check or note is publicly gazetted, consequently very few are dishonored; in Tokio, for instance, with its 1,500,000 population, only forty-six a month during the year ended May last.

Qualifications of Dublin Voters. To vote in Dublin one must occupy at least a room at a certain rental, and the law authorities have decided that the room the voter occupies must have a door. Portlenses will not suffice.

fooling the Police. English motorists now carry confetti, which they sprinkle on the road in the vicinity of police traps.

Logic of the Law. "You say your husband carries $100,000 life insurance?" asked the shrewd severer of matrimonial knots. "Yes," replied the applicant for release from irksome restraint. "Then, what in the world do you want with a divorce? Why don't you persuade him to buy an automobile?" —Brooklyn Life.
